Tony Forester and Brian Senior both showed immaculate judgement on this hand, (in contrast to the rest of the field who languished in game - or partscore - or low hearts (!!)) on the East West cards. When Stadnicki opened three spades third in hand Forester doubled for take-out, his partner responded for diamonds, and he had his second problem; he came up with the right answer - if you are going to bid game you might as well cue bid en route; Forester bid low spades and Brian Senior closed the auction with an intelligent jump to six diamonds - not an obvious bid but how much better can you be and not have jumped on the first round? 13 Tricks were easy.
